ELMER CRABTREE CHARGED WITH ROBBING STORES

Elmer Crabtree, a young man who grew up about two miles below Louisa, was arrested Tuesday on a charge of burglary. This followed a search of his room in a house on Water-st. It was found to contain a large amount of new goods of all kinds. Some of the merchants had identified the goods as theirs.

Crabtree had a large and complete assortment of keys. It is said he has been entering stores in Louisa by the use of these keys. His stock consisted of groceries, dry goods, clothing, house furnishings, etc. Some of the merchants had not missed their goods, while others had.

Crabtree is married but he and his wife recently separated. He served one term in the Kentucky Reformatory School a few years ago. He was placed in jail to await the action of the grand jury, which will assemble next Monday.

MRS. J. W. FRANKLIN'S DAUGHTER IN OPERA

The following is from the Times-Star and is of interest to Louisa friends of Miss Franklin's mother, who was before marriage Miss Myrtle Chapman, of this place:

Allie Imogene Franklin, Cincinnati singer, made an unexpected appearance Tuesday night at Music Hall with the Scott Grand Opera company. During the afternoon she paid a visit to some of her old friends of the Metropolitan Opera house, New York city, now with Scott, and found that they had so much to tell her that a short chat was insufficient. "You might just as well go to night," was their suggestion.

"I'll do it," replied Miss Franklin. And she did.

For the same reason she also sang in the "Madame Butterfly" performance Wednesday afternoon. Miss Franklin arrived home a few days ago from New York city. She studied there for two years, and was finally selected to join the Metropolitan forces. Miss Franklin's family lives at 321 Eighth avenue, Dayton, Ky. It should be explained that many of the singers in the Scott company were with the Metropolitan company during the season.

SYRIAN WRITES THANKS TO U. S. IN HIS BLOOD

New York.—A message written in blood on a grain of Syrian wheat, thanking American relief workers for aiding his people, has been received from the headman of a village of Lebanon by representatives of the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief in Beirut.

The message, so finely transcribed that it could be read only with a magnifying glass, declares that its author, Naib Said, could not find a letter ink than the blood of his heart nor a paper more appropriate than a "grain of wheat" to record "your great benevolence."

Robt. Shank's Showing In Aircraft World

Louisa friends of Mr. T. W. Shank, of this place, will be interested in the following from a Huntington paper. Robt. Shank is a son of T. W. Shank.

Flying from Washington, D. C., to Atlantic City in the remarkable time of two hours and five minutes, "Bob" Shank, of Huntington, famous among the government aerial mail carriers, qualified as a formidable contestant for the New York Herald's efficiency prize and also for the Pulitzer Trophy.

He was at the wheel of one of the Traymore Hotel planes, having resigned from the government postal service to enter that of the hotel and sealer carrying enterprise three weeks ago. Mr. Shank had taken Walter D'Arcy Ryan, director of the Illumination Laboratory of the General Electric Company at Schenectady, to the national capital. He left Bolling Field, Washington, at 11:45 and arrived in Atlantic City at 2:05. He made one stop at Havre de Grace, Md., for an additional supply of gasoline, which consumed 25 minutes.

The railroad mileage between Washington and Atlantic City is 192 miles, but the Traymore plane shortened this route to about 160 miles. Mr. Shank received an ovation at the airport upon his arrival. He also holds the record for speed between New York and Atlantic City. On Wednesday of last week, carrying Miss Hazel Allen as a passenger, he flew from the government mail field at Belmont Park to the flying field in Atlantic City without a stop in eighty minutes.

DEATH TAKES THOMAS B. FARLEY, OF BIAS, AT THE RIPE OLD AGE OF 84 YEARS

The venerable Thomas B. Farley, aged 84 years, died Tuesday night at his home near Bias postoffice on Elk Fork of Pigeon creek after an illness of some duration.

Mr. Farley was a life long resident of Logan and Mingo counties and was highly esteemed and respected for his many excellent qualities. No man enjoyed a better reputation for honesty and integrity and he was always steadfast for the right.

Deceased is survived by his wife, who was Miss Nancy Pinson, born and reared in Pike-co., and related to a number of prominent families throughout this section. He is also survived by seven sons, four of whom are prominent physicians. They are Drs. Will H. Farley, of Holden; H. H. Farley, of Logan; Rush Farley, of Holden, and J. E. Farley, of Logan-co. PIKE COUNTY MAN DIES IN ASHLAND

Lundy Lowe, seventeen years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ireland Lowe, of Meigs Bottom, Pike-co., passed away on Tuesday evening at The King's Daughters' hospital. He was taken ill last Friday night, suffering from obstruction of the bowel, peritonitis developed and he was brought to Ashland and placed in the hospital on Monday night, where an operation was performed on Tuesday morning. He did not rally, and just at dusk his spirit took its flight. His father and one brother were with him when the end came, and Wednesday morning they took his body home for burial. The funeral will occur on Thursday.

OIL DEVELOPMENT IS ACTIVE HERE

Three new oil well outfits are being shipped to the upper Blaine oil field to drill leases within a radius of two miles from the Union Gas & Oil company's wells. That company also is drilling more wells, and is receiving some new tanks in which to store oil from the wells they already have.

The pipe line company is rather slow about extending the oil line from Busseyville, it would seem from the complaints heard about the matter.

It is reported that another well will be drilled on Rockcastle soon.

Prospects are good for development in other parts of the county also.

In Johnson County.

A company doing business in the name of F. T. D. Wallace, Jr., Trustee, has drilled in a small well on the LeMaster lease in Johnson-co., about seven miles south of the Union Oil company's wells in Lawrence. This is in the Big Injun sand. The well will be drilled deeper, at least to the lower sand. Dr. Pettet, of Ashland, is the chief stockholder in this property.

Other important development is under way in Johnson-co., and a considerable amount of gas is being found.

SKAGGS-HOLBROOK.

Dr. Olga R. Skaggs, recently returned from army service, will be married to Miss Carrie Holbrook on Saturday of this week. They will go at once to McRoberts, where Dr. Skaggs will practice his profession. He is a bright young man from Terryville, this county, who graduated a year ago from a medical college. His bride is a daughter of I. F. Holbrook, one of Lawrence county's best citizens. These young people have the best wishes of many friends.

Big Syndicate Plans To Buy Up Orchards

Iroquois, O.—A Pittsburgh concern backed by capital from New York, Philadelphia and other cities has had representatives in Lawrence county, Ohio, the past few days obtaining prices on commercial orchard, with a view of buying the same and operating them. It is planned to capitalize this new company at $100,000,000, and the company plans to practically control the output or the production of fancy fruit in the United States. They have already invested a half-million dollars in productive orchards in West Virginia and a similar amount in Indiana and Illinois. A number of the fruit growers in Lawrence county have been approached and some of them have set prices on their valuable holdings.

EASTERN KENTUCKY SOLDIER HOME WITH 102 WOUNDS RECEIVED LAST DAY OF WAR

The soldier from Kentucky who had the most marks from the war is Sgt. Sam Joseph, Company G, 15th Infantry, 1st Division, who has reached his home on Baldy, Perry-co.

He had on his body 102 marks resulting from an explosive shell, which burst in his side in the last fight in which the Americans participated at Hill 240 in Argonne Forest.

Joseph landed in France June 6, 1917, and was in the trenches sixteen months without getting a scratch, but in the last battle, October 7, 1918, he got more than his share.

He says when the shell burst it raised him several feet from the ground and he was exposed for thirty-two hours before being taken to a hospital, where he lay for five months almost helpless. He left France April 6 and since had been in a hospital in Fort Sheridan, Ill.

He is decorated with special service stripes and wears one of the rings given by order of Gen. Pershing to the men of the 1st Division.

WILL GO TO CALIFORNIA.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Osborn, after a visit to his mother, Mrs. Lora Osborn in Chicago, will go to California for their future home. Mr. Osborn was married to Miss Gertrude Evans, of Blaine, soon after his return from overseas duty. He is a son of H. C. Osborn, deceased, who lived in Louisa a few years ago.

Firm Ready to Start Cofferdams in Ohio

The National Contract Company which has the contract for dam No. 20, three and one-half miles below Greencup, Ky., has warned navigators of the proposed building of cofferdams as soon as river conditions permit.

The lock and guide wall cofferdam will start from the Kentucky shore and extend out approximately 340 feet. The abutment cofferdam will extend out approximately 140 feet from the Ohio shore, leaving about 916 feet of open river between the cofferdams.

City Council Puts License on Lunches

The city council of Louisa met Tuesday night.

A license of $25 per year was fixed for those selling lunches at trains. This was the result of the unsanitary food and the trickery practiced on the traveling public by some irresponsible boys. Under the new regulations the public will be protected.

The paving proposition is not yet worked out, but it is hoped to get the obstructions out of the way very soon, so that work may be started. There are so many details to be adjusted in a matter of this kind that more time is consumed than can be foreseen.

SIXTY-SEVEN BLINDED MEN, DISCHARGED, RECEIVE $100 A MONTH FROM U. S.

Discharge from service of sixty-seven soldiers, blinded while serving in France, was announced by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.

The men have been under treatment in Roland Park, Baltimore. Some of the cases still retain sufficient vision to enable them to see objects dimly, but all are totally blind in an industrial sense, and on that basis will be paid compensation of $100 a month, in addition to $57.50 which they still receive from their Government insurance.

The number of men in the American forces who were left blinded is 125.

SUIT FOR $25,000 DAMAGES BROUGHT IN U. S. COURT

The declaration in a big damage suit was filed in the U. S. court in Huntington. Mrs. J. A. Watterson, as administratrix of the estate of George Watterson, deceased, has brought suit against the Madison Coal company for $25,000 damages for trespass, on the case.

The declaration sets forth that the decedent, under 21 years of age, was instantly killed May 25, 1918, while employed by the defendant in a coal mine in Boone county. He was thrown from a car operated on an incline, and it is alleged that the accident was brought about by wilful negligence and carelessness of the defendant, its agents and servants. The rope pulling the car was defective and insufficient, the petition alleges.

WAYNE COUNTY HAS A ROAD COMMITTEE

BRIDGE ACROSS BRUSHY IS FINALLY ERECTED

A bridge across Brushy at Prosperity has just been completed and was submitted Thursday of this week to the officials for acceptance. It is an iron bridge built by the Champion Bridge company for $1815. This time, however, the construction was done under the constant supervision of an honest and competent man, James Norton. He required the company to go to a solid foundation with the piers. Finding one foundation deeper than they had guessed it would be, and with the inspector standing immovable on the proposition of going deep enough to get a solid foundation, the company's representative induced the officials to pay extra for some of the excavation and concrete.

The bridge spans about four inches at the center, due to the false work letting down slightly during the construction, but this probably does not effect the bridge materially.

The contract called for the completion of this bridge July 15th of last year, and it has been necessary to spend money on the old one in the meantime. The new bridge will not be ready for use until falls are made at each end. This is a good time to make the fills.

WATSON ESTATE WINS IN SUIT FOR INSURANCE

In Circuit Court at Lexington, Ky., Tuesday of this week a judgment for five thousand dollars was rendered against the National Life Insurance company of Vermont in favor of the estate of Dr. Morton G. Watson.

The suit was brought to recover on a life insurance policy issued to Dr. Watson at Huntington ten months before his death. The company refused to pay, but offered a compromise. This was rejected. The jury was out only a few minutes on the case. J. W. M. Stewart of Ashland and Col. John R. Allen, of Lexington, were attorneys for the plaintiff.

The case was tried at Lexington because the company's agent on whom process was served lives there. Dr. Watson's legal residence was Louisa, which accounts for the case having been tried in Kentucky. His death occurred December 26, 1914.

The witnesses were Dr. W. J. Gambill of Jenkins, Dr. W. M. Salisbury of Ashland, Judge W. L. Watson of Ashland, T. E. Dimick of Huntington, J. W. Rucker of Ratcliff, F. H. Yates and M. F. Conley of Louisa.

FOLKS are a heap like tobacco. Thar's hot-headed, bitey folks. Thar's flat, uninterestin' folks. An' then thar's folks like Velvet—mild, but hearty an' fren'ly, too.

THE FRIENDLY TOBACCO

"Friendly" is a very good word to describe the positively pleasing quality that sets VELVET tobacco apart.

There is that indescribable something about VELVET that is associated in men's minds with the thought of a friend.

It is a satisfying smoke—never harsh; without a bite. Like a friend it "agrees" with you no matter how much you use it.

Long, patient ageing—in wooden hogheads—does it. Friendship must ripen slowly. Good tobacco the same way. An army of men have learned this through VELVET.

Today is a good time to get a lot of comfort out of a pipeful of friendly VELVET.

VELVET'S nature-aged mildness and smoothness make it just right for cigarettes.

MAY FLOWER.

IN MEMORY

On May 29, near the hour 9 p. m., the pale horse and his rider entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Ball and claimed for its victim their loving daughter, Willie Belle, age 19 years, 5 months and 3 days. At the age of eleven she was converted, was baptized and united with the M. E. Church at Walnut Gap, to which she proved a faithful member unto death.

She has been in failing health for several months, but her friends didn't know that her useful life was so near an end until a few weeks ago. Every thing was done that loving hands could do to ease and comfort her during her great suffering. She exercised great patience during her sickness, and often was heard to express her faith in God. In the death of this dear girl the home has lost a jewel, the church an efficient member. She was unusually bright and used her talent for the Lord. To know her was to love her. During her last illness the community expressed their love for Willie Belle by gathering at the home evenings and offering assistance in any way they could. Many would remain till late at night. Just a few hours before she passed away, she told her mamma that she saw the city of which she would soon be an inhabitant and that she saw the Savior, and as friends would enter the room she would have her mother to tell them of the wonderful sight she had seen, and as the end drew near the last words she said, "The angels have come," and away sped the immortal soul of this sweet girl to the God who gave it, leaving the little tired form to rest till the resurrection.

On the following day the funeral took place at the home, conducted by Revs. Copley and Ball. A large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends followed the body to its last resting place in the family burying ground on the hill overlooking the home. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family.

KEEP YOUR GOVERNMENT INSURANCE

The Government is now conducting an active campaign to urge and influence the men who have been in the service to continue their Government insurance and for this purpose have stationed men in all the larger cities to give information and advice to the men. Ensign McNeft, U. S. N. R. F. is representing the War Risk Insurance Bureau in Kentucky, with headquarters in Louisville, Ky.
The Government is doing a wonderful work in offering this insurance to its former fighting men and it is from no selfish motives. It is offering it to the men in part payment for their services which were rendered during the war and the men should realize that it is a valuable right and privilege which once thrown away can never be regained.
During the war the men were given what is called Term Insurance which they may carry for a period of five years after peace is declared with the privilege of converting, within that time, into six standard forms of policies viz: Ordinary life, 20 payment life, 30 payment life, 20 year endowment, 30 year endowment and endowment maturing at age of 62. The rates on these new policies are the cheapest that have ever been offered for the reason that there is no expense attached to it, all expenses being paid out of a separate fund and in addition to being low the Government will pay dividends, which no doubt will be substantial, for the same reason. All of the clauses of these policies are the most liberal than can be made and for which no extra charge is made. One feature in particular is the disability clause, which protects the men for the entire life of the policy, which in the case of an ordinary life or 20, or 30 payment life would be for the whole of life. The disability may occur at any age and if permanent the Government will waive premiums and pay the policy holder $5.75 for each thousand of insurance carried.

The Government during the war had on its books some 4,500,000 men with a policy value of $38,000,000,000 averaging $8,000 for each man. It is the hope that most of these men will retain and it is a patriotic duty for all to see that our former fighting men continue this insurance.

FARM DEPARTMENT

By G. C. BAKER, County Agent.

Watch for Gad Fly.
As soon as hot days are with us the sheep are quite certain to be seen with their noses close to the ground, shaking their heads and stamping the ground as though thoroughly worried. This means that the Gad Fly is about ready to deposit its young in the nose of the sheep and create trouble for the farmer.
If the noses of the sheep are smeared with pine tar the flies will be kept away. This smearing of tar on the nose may be done by boring auger holes in a log about 2 1/2 inches in diameter and 4 to 5 inches deep. These can be filled with salt and the edges of the holes smeared with tar. Of course the keeping of sheep away from infested, coarse, shrubby pastures always helps matters.
The Gad Fly is about the size of the common house fly, yellowish-gray in color, flies from June to October but only during the heat of the day.

Paint the Teeth.

A thrifty, shifty, old farmer had had a great deal of trouble with his farm hands who in spite of instructions would cultivate the corn as deep as the cultivator teeth would go. One day the old gentleman appeared at the country store smiling broadly. He seated himself comfortably and remarked:
"I've got 'em fixed now so I can tell in a minute how deep each hand is plowing corn. I just took a pot of carriage paint, that'd dry hard and quick, an' painted the top part of every tooth on every cultivator on the place. I painted 'em down within 2 inches of the point." Then I told the boys to fire the first fellow that let much paint get rubbed off. Now all I have to do is to look over the cultivators to know whether my land's gettin' shallow or deep cultivation, see?"

Launching An International Show.
The Chicago Board of Trade, desiring to stimulate and improve grain and forage production, offers $10,000 in premiums to exhibitors of grains and hay at the International Live Stock Exposition of Chicago, during the first week in December.
The management of this Exposition promises to stage a show of grains and forage which will in all respects be on a par with the wonderful exhibits of live stock annually assembled at this, "The World's Greatest Live Stock Show."
By having these powerful influences cooperate, an exhibition of grains and forage may be looked for, the equal of which has never been seen anywhere.

Nation-Wide Contest.
A Noncollegiate Live Stock Judging Contest will be staged at this year's International Live Stock Exposition during the first week in December.
After a due process of elimination at the county and State fairs the champion team from each State will be sent to this, "The World's Greatest Live Stock Show," to compete for grand champion honors. This interesting feature was added at the earnest solicitation of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Federal Board for Vocational Education. Owing to the keen rivalry that is bound to result the contest will naturally arouse nation-wide interest.
Several scholarships and many valuable prizes will be awarded to the fortunate contestants.

Monster Religious Pageant Feature of Methodist Centenary Celebration

ON the exposition grounds at Columbus, O., daily between June 20 and July 13 there will be produced, on a scale without precedent in this country, a program of pageantry which will require for its housing the coliseum, seating 3,000 people, a specially constructed mission playhouse, half a score of exhibit buildings, a great oval in front of an amphitheater designed to seat 50,000 people and calling for the services of 20,000 trained participants, already being drilled by hundreds of skilled instructors under the supervision of recognized authorities in missionary, dramatic and musical fields.

The Centenary Pageant will be presented in six distinct divisions. The schedule includes:

1. A splendid production of the Columbus Centenary Pageant, "The Wayfarer," to be staged in the Coliseum, six performances each week, every evening except Sunday.

DR. J. E. CROWTHER.
Assistant Director of the Methodist Centenary Celebration.

2. A mammoth patriotic pageant, on the great oval, probably July 4.

3. An impressive pageant of prophecy, bringing together in massed array all participants in the service activities of the celebration. This procession will be held in the open.

4. The Children's Pageant, which will be given effective out-of-door setting, in that it is to be staged on the lake front in the Centenary grounds with a background of natural greenery, with trees and shrubs.

5. The Demonstration Pageant, given daily in the several exhibit buildings.

6. Native Life Plays in the Mission playhouse.

Interest on the part of the general public centers primarily in the Columbus Centenary Pageant, "The Wayfarer," which has been written and will be produced by Dr. J. E. Crowther of Seattle, assistant director of the celebration.

Headlining that the celebration would attract many thousands who could carry away a great spiritual message if it was presented in striking manner, he designed the pageant, "The Wayfarer," as more than an entertainment or a spectacle, and combined impressive religious drama with a high-class musical setting to show that throughout the ages religion has triumphed over seemingly insurmountable opposition.

"The theme of my pageant? One word will give it to you—'Kinsman'—'God is with us,'" says the author, proudly. "There are two leading characters in this pageant of mine: a woman called Understanding and the Wayfarer, a man who represents that element in modern society, and more especially in the church, which is so bewildered by the industrial and the social upheaval in the revolution throughout the world as to be almost in despair.

"To Wayfarer, as to the man, whom you and I know in real life, it seems as if God is either an absentee or utterly ignorant of the conditions. However, I have held my pageant's text close to the fundamental truths which life teaches and as the Wayfarer journeys with Understanding through the great events of religious history, he discovers that in every age the church has been confronted with seemingly insurmountable difficulties, yet always has triumphed."

Dr. Crowther has built his "Pageant of the Kingdom" around three episodes—the Captivity, the Christ, the Conquest. The time is the present. The immediate occasion is the war in Europe.

Episode 1. The Captivity has three scenes—War, Domination, Despair and Deliverance.

Episode 2. The Christ is presented in four scenes—Bethlehem, Jerusalem, Calvary, the Resurrection.

Episode 3. The Conquest comprises nine units, staged without intermission: The Great Commission, The Message of the Cross, The Gospel Message, The World's Response, The Message of the Cross, The World's Response, The Message of the Cross, The World's Response, The Message of the Cross, The World's Response.

The Great Commission recalls the direction of Christ for the conquest of the world through Christianity, portraying "The Message of the Cross" as shown Paul, Constantine, Augustine, Wycliffe, Luther, Wesley, Morison—revered for service in Christ; Christ—whose name suggests India, Lysistrata, inseparable from the church history of Africa; Lincoln and other men who in modern times have served the cause of Christian civilization.

In voice "The World's Response," that great poem of John Greenham, "From North and South and East and West They Come," will be given.

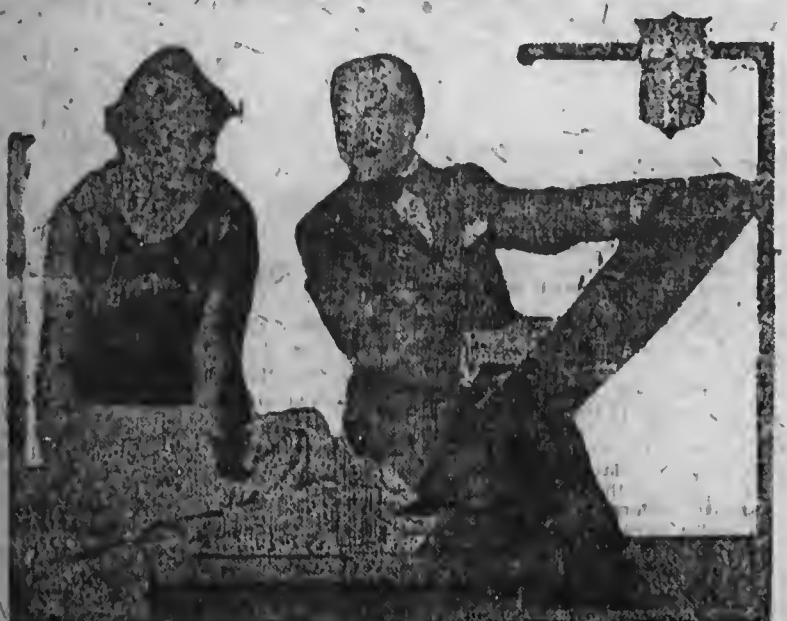

While much that is finest in the score of "The Messiah" will be incorporated in the presentation of "The Wayfarer," Professor William J. Kraft of Columbia University, director general of the Centenary music, is writing several choruses for it and selections from both Stainer and Macfarlane have been introduced. Assigning Professor Kraft are Horace Whitehouse of Ohio Wesleyan University and Montgomery Lynch of Seattle. Mr. Lynch will direct the music of "The Wayfarer."

A symphony orchestra of 75 pieces will support an off-stage chorus of 1,000 voices in addition to the 250 singers on the stage.

The musical numbers of the pageant form a feature which by itself would be considered ambitious enough for any great production. They include the following:

Item No. 1—"Why Do We Suffer?" Handel
Tense Solo—"Comfort Ye," Handel
Chorus—"Awake, Put on Thy Strength," Handel
Soprano Solo—"Rejoice Greatly, O Daughter of Zion," Handel
Chorus—"Arise, Shine," Handel
Alto and Chorus—"O Thou That Tellest," Handel
Orchestra—"Pastoral Symphony," Handel
Chorus—"Gloria to God in the Highest," Handel
Alto Solo—"He Shall Feed His Flock," Handel
Chorus—"Rejoice," Handel
Soprano Solo—"Come Unto Him," Handel
Orchestra—"Professional"—"To God," Handel
Chorus—"Sing Unto the Lord," Handel
Chorus—"Hail Up Your Hands," Handel
Tenor and Chorus—"Ho, Everyman, Trust in the Lord," Handel
Chorus—"O to Be a Child in Zion," Handel
Chorus—"Hallelujah," Handel

DESIGNING COSTUMES TO BE WORN AT METHODIST CENTENARY CELEBRATION

DESIGNS for thousands of costumes to be used in the pageant and the plays of the Methodist Centenary Celebration at Columbus, O., June 20 to July 13, are being prepared by Livingston Platt, the noted costume and scenic designer of New York, who has taken the big job of costume design for the entire pageant. His designs range from the garb of the ancient Babylonians and their Jewish captives, worn in the first episode of the big pageant, "The Wayfarer," to the more modern dress of Belgium refugees in the war front scene. Seventy thousand yards of material have been ordered for the costumes used in the Centenary Celebration which marks in a spectacular and impressive manner the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Methodist missions.

Mr. Platt has made research work for weeks through authentic pictorial records of costumes, ancient and modern. In addition to the costumes of Biblical times, he has limited plates of Japanese, Chinese and Hindu garb.

For State Senate.

We are authorized to announce Hon. BRIG H. HARRIS, of Boyd county, as a candidate for the State Senate from the district composed of Boyd, Lawrence, Johnson and Martin counties, subject to the action of the Republican party.

A road is no better than the worst place in it, because it is useless to start with a load or conveyance that can not get over that place.

The road to Blaine has been practically useless for five months, through the mildest winter ever known, because of a comparatively few impassable places. $500 properly spent would have prevented such a condition.

The cost of had roads on any one day in this year was sufficient to repair the worst places and make the roads passable. The citizens paid the cost every day but did not get what they paid for.

"Do it now" is the only rule under which mudholes can be successfully combated. Boyd county formerly had a system under which contractors were let every year for keeping the roads in repair. The roads were divided into sections of two miles or more and contracts were let at public outcry. Farmers bid in the work at a low price because a little attention when a mudhole starts keeps the work down to a minimum.

With the modern road drag the farmer gets out immediately after a rain, when he can not do anything else, and runs the drag over the road to chase off all the water that is caught in ruts and tracks and small places in the road. Water standing in these places is the only thing that can start a mud hole.

ARMY GETS 6 MONTHS' GRACE ON INSURANCE

Washington.—Soldiers who fail to pay their premiums on Government insurance after discharge will be given a nine-month period in which the policy may be reinstated under a ruling announced by Secretary Glass. Insurance on which premiums are not paid will be classed as lapsed after ninety days, but at any time during the six months following, may be reinstated by the insured if he furnishes a physician's certificate that he is in good health and pays up back premiums.

The U. S. government has presented Lawrence county with a good truck. Wonder how we'll get it in here?

WHERE THE ROADS WENT.

One man who, under strong provocation, sometimes uses language more eloquent than elegant, said: "Did you ever hear of a more idiotic idea than that one of getting the county out of debt by letting the roads go to—?" Perhaps that is where the roads have gone. The bottom has disappeared in that direction.

Luko McLuke, the humorist-philosopher of the Cincinnati Enquirer, went down to Maysville, Ky., the other night to lecture and was indicted by the grand jury for gambling. Now may we not expect something like this in Luke's column?

A sorry wag came into town—

I speak of Luko, McLuke—

Unto his fame to add renown,

But got a sad rebuke.

For when he tried to show the boys

The way to roll the bones

The sheriff grabbed him by the neck

And bawled in strident tones:

"You can't come into this here town

With no such dirty tricks

And try to cop our hard-earned coin,

Or sell no golden bricks.

We listened to your hoary jokes

Until our ears do ache—

You can't come into this here town

and work no other fake.

So come and face the majesty

Of law; and you'll be lucky

If you get back with any dough

From down 'n Old Kentucky."

—Cynthiana Democrat.

Another Version.

(The Big Sandy News has reliable information about what happened there, hence these lines.)

You've got the wrong dope, Jim Allen,

And it isn't fair to Luke.

They say he drinks booze by the gallon

And for this he deserves rebuke;

But the boys at Maysville are sicker

Than the guys Luke knows at home,

And while they are slower on liquor

They are there with the fine tooth comb

When it comes to the bones and poker

For taking the coin from a stranger—

Especially if he be a joker

Such as this Cincinnati granger.

The Maysville boys "relied" Luke, for fair—

They captured all his money.

Then somebody tipped the Sheriff off

And the joke no more was funny.

So let's not kick him when he's down;

It hurts our reputation.

Kentucky hospitality is at stake—

Let's offer our consolation.

MEMORIAL DAY FITTINGLY CELEBRATED IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., June 3.—May 30, Memorial Day, is always a great day in Washington. This year the day was perhaps more fittingly celebrated than ever before.

Probably the largest crowd—some 5,000—gathered at the celebration of those who went down with the Maine at Havana harbor February 15, 1898.

A fine program was arranged and a company of lady Yeomen from the U. S. Navy with a section of the Marine band was present. Congressmen Fields and Langley made addresses and the author of the "Bivouac of the Dead" was honored by having his poem read.

The chairman of the gathering declared the occasion could be appropriately termed "Kentucky Day at Arlington" because of the facts stated. Mrs. Fields, accompanied by her husband, was with Mr. Fields on the reviewing stand and he was at his best. It was remarked that he was easily the orator of the day among the half dozen who spoke.

Mr. Fields having recently returned from the devastated battlefields of France with a trunkful of relics from the battlefields, gave an account of the conditions there that held his audience spellbound. He gave a history of the events that led up to the Spanish-American war referring to the Spanish-American war as a pleasant way to the conspicuous figures of said war: McKinley, Fitzhugh Lee, Roosevelt and Joe Wheeler, and amid applause declared that the events of said war were the beginning of a unity of purpose between the North and South that had languished since the Civil war.

He painted a beautiful picture of suffering Cuba that appealed to Americans and captured their sympathy and good will and eventually led our people to set Cuba free.

I Owe My Life to PERUNA

Mr. McKinley's letter brings cheer to all who may be sufferers as he was. Read it:

"I can honestly say that I owe my life to Peruna. After some of the best doctors in the country gave me up and told me I could not live another month, Peruna saved me. Travelling from town to town, throughout the country and having to go into all kinds of badly heated stores and buildings, sometimes standing up for hours at a time while playing my trade as auctioneer, it is only natural that I had colds frequently. So when this would occur I paid little attention to it until last December when I contracted a severe case, which through neglect on my part settled on my lungs. When almost too late, I began doctoring, but, without avail, until I heard of Peruna. It cured me so I cannot praise it too highly."

It Cured Me

The entire community was greatly shocked over the death of Tom Clay. He was drowned May 18 at Otter. His body was found seven days later at Whitehouse. He had been working here and made many friends wherever he went. He always met everybody with a smile. He was about 19 years old, and leaves an aged father and mother, four brothers and one sister, besides a host of friends and relatives. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Wm. Ellis, of Ashland, was here last week looking after the mine. Dr. Ed Holbrook of Martin county, was here Saturday.

Rowland Spencer, of Lawrence county, was here Friday. The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Kouns is quite sick at this writing. Mrs. Lon Wheeler and children are contemplating visiting her mother at Borderland, W. Va., soon.

Floyd Carroll, of Floyd Elkhorn, is very low with typhoid fever and is not expected to live.

Mrs. Ida Ward, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Bert Kouns, has returned home.

The Misses Lykens entertained a crowd of youngsters Sunday afternoon. News reached here that Mrs. Walter Jones was very low with typhoid fever at Ironton in the hospital. They moved to Richardson from here about two weeks ago.

A. H. Perry, Supt. of the mines here, visited home folks in Lawrence county Saturday and Sunday.

We were sorry to hear about little Jack Jordan getting his leg broken. The little fellow was already very badly crippled which possibly was the cause of the accident.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Freese is sick. Have received two copies of the Big Sandy News and believe me I was glad to get it. Never had seen a copy since moving here. It is like a visit from a dear friend. A LAWRENCE GIRL.

NO AMERICAN GRAVE IN FRANCE OVERLOOKED

Not a grave of any American who fell in the great war was overlooked in the observance of Memorial day in France. Some of the services were held in the vicinity of the battle line along which the troops fought and sacrificed their lives.

Three weeks ago we decided to have an operation performed on his leg while he was young and strong and he was sent a base hospital near Nantes. He is getting along fine and the doctor says that his leg will be as good as it ever was within two months.

He has big crowds around him every day. All the nurses are proud of him. He wears two wound stripes and sergeant's chevrons which we gave him. After he had been in the hospital for two weeks some one made the remark that all the good marines were dead and that when he got well they were going to make him orderly. He said, "H" Co. isn't dead and I'm sergeant; snap out of your hop! I like Charlie because he has such control of himself and never uses any bad language and most of all he does not smoke cigarettes for most all the kids in this country use tobacco. I think that he is a specimen of a boy to be brought up among soldiers.

CALOMEL SALIVATES AND MAKES YOU SICK

Acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver and you lose a day's work.

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when only a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tonic, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tonic instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sleeplessness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tonic, get it better than horrible calomel; your money is waiting for you.

Pvt. Everett Preston Writes From France

St. Nazaire, France, May 18, 1919.
Editor Big Sandy News:
"Lost 23,000 Marines Somewhere in France." Our too sweet soldiers are keeping a steady flow homeward bound and a large percent of them are home and have told their adventures to their good-old friends many times. I see troops go every day and often go down and see them get on the transport, and I can hardly resist crawling on, but as someone has to do the work I manage to make an about face and observe the A. T. S. regulations for our time is coming soon when we will be plowing thru the deep blue sea to the best country in the world.

I know I have been a little unlucky, but to remind the boys that have returned home and in their civvies, of their military career—that they were lucky to get out so soon I'm writing to your paper. I have been in the service over a year and feel that the Marine Corps is as good a branch of the service as any young man can get into if he likes military life. They expect each and every man to be 100 percent soldier while in the service, but I prefer the civilian life. I am not in the least dissatisfied because I owe it to my country and to the Belgian people.

We have a little Belgian mascot with us that has been with our company for some time. He is eleven years of age. He and his sister were captured by the Huns when he was seven years old, and his mother escaped. The British launched an attack on the Bocho, and recaptured little Charlie. He was a German prisoner for eight days. He was telling me about his mother's farm; said he and some little chickens, and also a goat he had tied with a line when they captured him, and he wouldn't talk about his sister for she had been in prison for three years, and she had to do as the cruel Germans said or they would kill her. Charlie was wounded two times and his knee is in bad condition. His knee is stiff and his leg was broken and is very crooked, but he has so much pep that he gets around fine. We found Charlie and his mother at Nantes. She was in the hospital and little Charlie had to make his own way thru the world, and food was scarce. We took him to our barracks and bought him a little uniform and when he went over in town with any of us he's the whole show, for all the French stop and talk to him for he is so clean and attractive that we are proud of him. When we moved here he was anxious to come with us and says he wants to go to America with us. He always gets something every payday. When the camp school started he began going to school and within two weeks he could read some and he also knew his multiplication table.

But Chesterfields do more—they begin where the rest of 'em stop! Because Chesterfields "touch the smoke-spot," they let you know you are smoking—they do SATISFY!

Ever pack up your toe with "corn-traps" and planters as though you were packing a glass vase for parcel post? Ever use greasy ointments that run off on your stockings? Kind of foolish, when 2 or 3 drops of "Gels-It" on any corn or callus gives it a quick, painless, peaceful, dead-sure removal! Why putter and suffer? "Gels-It" stops corns, calluses, lets you work, smile and dance, even with corns. It's the common-sense way, the only simple, easy way—peels corns off like a banana peel. Used by millions. HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

A Time For All Things.

Timeliness is as important as fitness. The right thing may become wrong unless it is done at the right time. Look well to the time of doing anything. If your wife looks worried and worn out, be sure it is not the time to tell her that dinner is not hot or that the bread is sour. Comfort her; cheer her up. Use the ten thousand little strategies you would want to handle so skillfully in the old days to bring out the smiles around her lips. If you're annoyed or vexed at people, just remember it is not the right time to speak. Close your mouth. Shut your teeth together firmly and it will save you many a useless and unwelcome regret, and many a bitter enemy. If you happen to feel a little cross, and who among us do not at one time or another, do not select that time for reproving your noisy household flock. A word spoken in passion will make a scar that a summer of smiles can hardly heal over. If you are a wife, never tease your husband when he comes home, weary from his day's business. It is not the right time. Do not ask him for expensive outfit when he has been talking hard times. It is most assuredly, the wrong time. If he has entered upon an undertaking, against your advice, do not seize on the moment of its failure to say, "I told you so." In fact it is never the right time for these four monosyllables. Oh, if people only knew how to discriminate between the right time and the wrong time, there would be less domestic unhappiness, less silent sorrow, and less untravelling of the heart. The greatest calamities that overshadow our lives have sometimes their germs in nature as apparently slight as this. If you would only pause, ponder, before the stinging taunt, or the biting sneer, or the unkind scoff passes your lips, just pause long enough to ask yourself,

"Is it the right time for me to speak?" You would shut the world against many a heartache. The world hinges on little things, and there are many more trivial than the right time and the wrong.

Home and Happiness.

Many a young wife is so negligent of her husband's comfort, is so glum and blue and cheerless, that home to him is not a place to stay, he'd rather be out among the boys, there's life and fun among them, while there is nothing but fault finding and cross looks at home. The woman who cannot talk intelligently and pleasantly to her husband about business matters that concern them both, and make the home a cheery place that he will not be ashamed to invite his friends to visit, is lost. He most likely will bring his friends when she is cleaning house, or has a sick headache, or there is nothing good for dinner, but that doesn't make any difference. It doesn't excuse her for getting out of sorts about it, she must smile on him do the best she can, not forgetting that a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, it is a priceless possession that can only be obtained by being put through the fiery furnace. This is the way true metal is tested. Let the young husband and wife not grow discouraged at defects they find in one another. They are always there, but time and patience smooth our wrinkles and adapt the pair to each other's ways.

When hearts are broken and friends fall, this active stirring world of ours makes room for us all in go to work and forget our troubles. If it were not for something to do, and the chance, to do it, what would become of the mother when her baby dies? Do you think she would ever recover from such an anguish if she found nothing to do but chase the empty cradle and fondle the unused garments? Be up and doing! Oh broken hearted children of our common parent, sorrow, so shall the heart heal and the pain be yielded. Work will keep off city's penniless list and maintain in your bosom the soul of a steadfast soldier rather than that of a whimpere and a craven. Thank the destiny that sends you many tasks for prompt fulfillment and many perplexing things for wise adjustment, otherwise you would never forget the wound that throbs with fresh pain whenever night comes and the duties of the day are hushed to rest. It is then that the old wound revives. It is then that life throws off its disguise and "sorrow's crown of sorrow" crushes its thorn into our brow; it is then that the heavens melt and nothing is left but the influence of helpless despair. Seek work, then, as panacea of pain, and in a busy life forget the smart of sorrow that never can be cured.

What is the use of hurrying? There is time enough for all work and they who work and scurry through day after day, vainly endeavoring to do a little more than any mortal ought to do in a day, are injured physically and mentally and do not in the end accomplish as much as the quiet, steady worker who keeps on solemnly hour after hour until weary, and then has the good sense to rest.

Let us not wait until our blessings are gone before we begin to prize them.

ADAMS

Through the columns of your paper we wish to extend our sincere and heartfelt thanks to our relatives and many friends who so kindly assisted at the time of the sickness, death and burial of our dear daughter, AVILLELLI Roberts-Carter, who departed this life May 29. May God's blessing be upon them and as their reward a home in heaven. Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Hall.

MOUNTAIN FOLK TO WELCOME YORK WITH BIG DINNER

TENNESSEE MERCHANTS PLAN TO GIVE HIM $50,000 FARM IN HIS NATIVE COUNTY.

Pall Mall, Tenn.—The simple, kindly folk of this picturesque community are busy and happy, their thoughts and hearts engrossed with the home-coming of Sergt. Alvin York, whom Maj. Gen. Duncan, at a dinner in New York last week, characterized as "the greatest hero of the war," and as the man who performed "the mightiest and most conspicuous single act of gallantry performed by an individual in this war."

Sergt. York's people are preparing a monster basket dinner to be spread around "Three Forks O' Wolf," where the gallant soldier's cabin-home is located. When it is served, "Big Un," as they know him best about Three Forks, will take his place under the big dogwood tree, and after the mountain folk have drunk his toast in the cold, spring water, this six-foot hero will tell his people how his fame was won.

At York's side at the "spread" will be Miss Gracie Williams, his 17-year-old sweetheart. When York left for battle he "left it up to her to take him if she wanted him when he came back." She will give him his answer, the parson says, at the picnic spread, and the parson hints that there will be a ceremony soon at "Possum Trot church" though Gracie has never told anyone finally what her answer will be.

After the "spread," the people all will go to the little church at Pall Mall, where Brother York will be asked to preach them a sermon, and lead them once more in the old songs as he did before he went away.

York's family is poor in the world's goods, a little two-room cabin being all the family of eight has to call their own, so the Rotary Club of Nashville is now conducting a campaign to raise $50,000 to buy York a fine farm in his native county.

The deed will be presented to him when he comes to Tennessee and Tennessee farmers will stock the farm for him free, and merchants of the State have offered enough furniture, kitchen stoves and other household goods to equip a dozen hotels.

York has already expressed his intention of going back to Pall Mall to live. He will be a preacher and will till the little pulpit in the hills where he was converted from the gambler and rouser into the God-fearing soldier.

Pall Mall is forty miles from a railroad, but people will go there on pilgrimages from all parts of his State to hear the mountain hero preach. It is understood that offers of various kinds have been made York by enterprising managers, but he has turned down all of them.

Sergt. York's Sweetheart Prisms For Posse Before Camera.

Pall Mall, Tenn.—The first lady of the land, or at least a very close second, lives in a little, rose-covered mountain cabin just a half mile up the creek from the lowly home of Sergt. Alvin Cullum York, greatest hero of the world war, paragon and lionized by the big Tennessee press, but also for his big hair and freckles and his big, brawny good nature.

Sergt. York has left it all and has returned to the Three Forks of Wolf, where the little mountain sweetheart waited to give him the answer to the plea he made before he went away to war.

The first lady of the sweetheart of the first hero, fulfills what popular romance expects of a great hero's love. She really is pretty and winsome, and she is fair, with most lips that are red and smile most roughly.

Although her mother was "not again," the girl consented to sit for a photograph, her father was willing and the camera more than anxious to do all in its power.

And then the eternal feminine was unfaithful.

"I'll have to fix up," she said. And the eternal feminine was made decidedly emphatic in the length of time it took her to do it. Overhead could be heard the light footsteps, that the rough hewn clapboards, that served as ceiling and floor, registered the breathless intimacy and charity of the mountain beauty's toilette.

"Mam, where's mah yaller hair pins?" called the voice from above.

And then it became evident that the traveling salesman had found the fertile valley that no one else seemed to have heard about, until the fighting, Sergeant, made it famous by coming from there before he shouldered his gun and put twenty-three notches on it for a record day's work over in the Argonne. Some angel of commerce, paid, invaded the valley of the Wolf and he had sought out blonde maidens and sold them golden hair pins. Some of these self-same golden hair pins were at that moment being anxiously desired and sought by the hero's sweetheart who was going to have her picture taken.

Finding the hair pins, she caught up lavish strands of wonderful hair and twisted and braided and caught it and stuck it up there where it belonged, with determination and skill.

"I'm ready," she said, and presented herself still priming and looking herself over and finding a lot of other things to do. She wore a pink frock and she settled for all time the question as to whether blonde look better in pink or blue. It's pink.

Just outside the doorway she sat on the rustic framework that was built about a cluster of yellow morning glories, and the pretentious upstart little camera had the audacity to attempt to record some little atom of the glorious scene before it.

Perhaps it would be interesting to know some of the inside, about the mountaineer's wooing the first lady. She knew him before he went to war, in the days when they went to church and to the spelling bees together. And she knew him when he was the roaring, roistering bully, who was not exactly a bully, but gambled and drank and fought.

"He always let on like he never wanted to go to church but I told him he'd have to go if he wanted to go with me," she confided. "I never paid any attention to the way he'd cut up because that's liable to make a man show off. I just let him know I cared a little but not too much and then it was up to him to show that he cared enough himself not to get silly about it. And three years ago he was converted. I knew enough about him to know that he meant it and would try to live up to it."

"I never promised him anything one way or the other before he went away. I told him I'd let him know when he came back. And now he's come back."

"You want to know what I told him? Wait and see."

And that is what two continents are waiting to see. The rumor goes that it will happen in the little church at Pall Mall, where the big, good natured, happy-go-lucky fighting mountaineer was converted to the thoughtful man of Christ who saw new visions and ideals and fought for them in the Argonne. It was the fight of a man who learned daring and manhood and primitive wit in days of hardy recklessness and who learned decisive conviction and thoughtful virtue from the little church in the valley and the roving mountain evangelist.

It is the man from the frontier who showed an example to the world, and now he is back to claim the girl who inspired him with frontier virtue, frankness and understanding.

Telephone Unpreparedness

"Wait a minute, Central, I'll get the number." That means delay which, when it occurs often, will slow up the whole service.

To avoid such delays, the telephone user should always look up the number wanted before taking the receiver from the hook.

By this sort of telephone preparedness the telephone user gets quicker connections, the switchboard operator's work is lightened and good telephone service is greatly facilitated.
